Jr. Red Cross Work Completed

The teachers and some of the ladies of the Home and School Club have been busy the past week finishing the Campbell quota of the Junior Red Cross bedside bags. Owing to the closing of the schools the allotment was not made by the pupils but had to be turned in.

Miss Sprecher, with some assistance has completed the High School allotment, and Mr. Arnott, with a little help has made all the bedside tables.

The Children's Year Program committee has received many inquiries from the numerous districts in Santa Clara county in regard to the children's health centers and the weighing and measuring drive.

The prevailing epidemic, while delaying the opening of several new health centers, has demonstrated beyond a doubt that the work begun last spring should be completed.

Mothers will be urged to bring their children for inspection and be given advice as to the best method of keeping them well and growing properly.

As soon as the board of health considers it advisable, the health center in San Jose, which is already established at the Social Service Agency building will be in operation.

Notice of the time of opening, and the locations of new centers throughout the county will be given to the press.

Editors are all born boosters. The other day an editor was solicited to join a lodge and was handed a petition printed by a supply house in another city. He got a dun from a merchant in a government stamped envelope and written on a baking powder statement; he made a purchase at a store and got a duplicate bill, printed in Chicago: he meandered to the fair or other home hurrah doings to which he has devoted hours of boosting, bearing as a complimentary ticket printed in Ohio. Ye Gods, how can an editor expect to join lodges and pay bills on such treatment as that, and all the time tell the people to trade at home.—Ex.

About "Metz"

Metz Waterless Soap comes in a can, if you please. It's an odorless, cleansing, softening paste. When you get ink, or dirty grease, or soot on your hands—and everybody with any "pep" at all does at least one of these things every week—use "Metz." A word of warning: Don't try to mix water with "Metz." It won't work. Rub the paste into the skin well; then remove the paste with an old rag or something. Finish with ordinary soap and water, if you like. If the hands are chapped and sore, use "Metz" instead of ordinary soap, avoiding water as much as possible. Metz Waterless Soap is ten cents.

Are You Eating Onions?

Evidently our suggestion of onions as a preventive of the "flu" has born fruit. Said onions are selling like the proverbial hot-cakes. For our timely advice we are deserving of much credit—and the sale of more onions. They are still only three cents a pound.

Sweet Potatoes are down to four cents. Use them while they last. Thus will be conserved other things that keep longer. It's patriotic, serving sweet spuds.

New crop California Rice is in the market at last. The wholesale price to us is 8.25 f. o. b. San Francisco. Add 15c the hundred for freight. This makes the net cost to us, 8.40. Now, Uncle Sam says that our margin of profit on rice should be twenty-five per cent. on the selling price. So substract 25 from 100 and you have 75. Divide 8.40 by 75 and you have 11 1-5c. We'll give you the one-fifth of a cent. That makes our price, Hooverized and profiteerless, eleven cents a pound for this new rice. If you want a quantity, say twenty-five pounds or more, we'll make it ten cents.

"Y" Man Writes

Limoges, France, October 8, 1918.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas Hyatt, Campbell, Cal.

My very dear Friends:

How delighted I was to get your good letters some time ago! It was my impulse to sit right down and answer it so that I might hear again from you. This I shall hope to do, any way. But you can readily understand that my time for letter-writing is limited and that my friends over there will have to look quite largely to my letters to Mrs. Eckles for news of me here. But I shall hope to hear from them just the same.

My work has been very interesting as well as taxing. You no doubt have heard as much as I can tell through Mrs. Eckles. I am just about to take up new duties of a more congenial nature. It will be along religious, social and educational lines—more in keeping with my tastes and training. So far I've ministered quite largely to the physical wants of the boys—a very valuable service—but I shall be glad to leave this to others and do a work that goes deeper.

Good news reaches me of the Church. I am so glad the people like and are following the Prestons. We were fortunate in securing them, I think.

Our weather here is fine so far: The Country is beautiful in its covering of green; but the chill of fall is in the air and cold weather is not far distant.

Remember me very kindly to all enquiring friends. Continue to remember us in your prayers—the boys appreciate this more than you know—prepare for our return—and keep the home fires burning!

I am very well and happy. I am glad I came—and shall be glad—glad to return when I can be spared. My little Church, home and group of friends never seemed so attractive until an ocean intervened! My Country means immeasurably more to me than ever before: I love America with all my heart!

God bless you and keep you—and make His face to Shine upon you—and be gracious unto you!

Very Sincrely Your pastor,
WILLIAM EDGAR ECKLES.

FOR BETTER ROADS

MACHINE FOR MAKING ROADS

Apparatus Invented by Nebraska Man for Forming Roadways With Material Directly at Hand.

The Scientific American in illustrating and describing a road-making machane, the invention of M. N. Latta of Valentine, Neb., says:

"This invention relates generally to road-making apparatus, and more particularly to roadway machines for forming roadways with the material directly at hand, where good horse roads are difficult to make, the general object being the provision of a machine movable along a selected roadway site, capable of the formation of wheel tracks in the course of its movement. A further object is to provide a machine capable of ready adjustment and interchange of parts for other purposes; for instance, it can be transformed into a freight car in a very short time. For the grading of roads the machine is self-loading and self-adjusting, automatically throwing the high side to the low side, whether at left or right.

DEFINITION OF ROAD TERMS

List of Technical Names Taken From the Program of the Canadian Good Roads Congress.

With the progress of road building there has come into use a number of terms more or less technical, but which should be well known. The following list is from the program of the Canadian Good Roads congress:

Aggregate.—The mineral material, such as sand, gravel, shells, slag, or broken stone, or combinations thereof, with which the cement or the bituminous material is mixed to form a mortar or concrete. Fine aggregate may be considered as the mineral inert material which will pass a one-fourth-inch screen, and coarse aggregate the material which will not pass a one-fourth-inch screen.

Binder.—(1) A foreign or fine material introduced into the mineral portion of the wearing surface for the purpose of assisting the road material to retain its integrity under stress, as well as, perhaps, to aid in its first construction. (2) The course, in a sheet asphalt pavement, frequently used between the concrete foundation and the sheet asphalt mixture of graded sand and asphalt cement.

Bond.—The combined action of inertia, friction, and of the forces of adhesion and cohesion which helps the separate particles composing a crust or pavement to resist separation under stress. Mechanical bond is the bond produced almost wholly in a well-built broken-stone macadam road, by the interlocking of angular fragments of stone and the subsequent filling of the remaining interstices with the finer particles.

Water-Bound.—Bonded with the aid of water.

Cement.—An adhesive substance used for uniting particles of other materials to each other. Ordinarily applied only to calcined "cement rock," or to artificially prepared calcined and ground mixtures of limestone and silicious materials. Sometimes used to designate bituminous binder used in bituminous pavements, when the expression "bituminous cement" (q. v.) is understood to be meant.

Cement Concrete.—An intimate mixture of gravel, shell, slag or broken stone particles with certain proportions of sand or similar material, cement and water, made previous to placing.

Course.—One or more layers of road material spread and compacted separately for the formation of the road or pavement. Courses are usually referred to in the order of their laying, as first course, second course, third course, etc. Also a single row of blocks in a pavement.

Crown.—The rise in cross-section from the lowest to the highest part of the finished roadway. It may be expressed either as so many inches (or tenths of a foot), or as a rate per foot of distance from side to center, that is, "the crown is four inches," or "the crown is one-half inch to the foot."

Roads for Main Lines.

The main lines of travel can, and must, be given some other kind of road than a simple dirt road. Every state in the Union has deposits of gravel, and a good gravel road is very good if it is properly maintained.

Zeebrugge Raid Told By Commanding Officer

Superhuman Work in Face of Whirlwind of Fire and Heroic Attack of Storming Party Graphically Described—Block Ships Still in Position Sealing the Navigable Channel Into Canals—Keyes in Charge.

London.—An official interview with one of the commanding officers of the Zeebrugge raid gives for the first time some idea of the tremendous, intricate schemes that must be devised for modern naval operations, such as bottling up the Zeebrugge submarine base.

While the name of the officer who gave the interview may not be used, for obvious reasons, the study was arranged with the permission of the first sea lord, Sir Rosslyn Wemyss, and through the courtesy of Sir Douglas Brownrigg, chief naval censor. The spectacular story of the raid; the almost superhuman work done in the face of a whirlwind of fire, and the heroic attack of the storming party scrambling over the Mole were all placed by the British officer as mere incidentals in the tremendous assault that was determined upon.

"The problem that lay before us," he said, "was far bigger and greater than the landing on the Mole, or any mere spectacular features. It was vastly different from merely sending one or more ships into a harbor protected by shore batteries, because the channel to be blocked was narrow, and a ship or ships must be placed carefully to make the effort successful. Moreover, the waters through which the vessels must dash were under the protection of heavy guns which commanded the sea practically for 15 miles out from the coast.

Dash Under Cover.

"This meant that the vessels, with the block ships, must arrange their dash under cover for 15 miles. And then, having run the coast batteries, they must run close to a heavy battery on the Mole, located practically a mile out in the harbor, and which could fire practically point blank at the vessels. And then, of course, also under cover of the near shore batteries of the Mole and the heavier coast batteries, making another run of 15 miles. The German mine fields also had to be encountered.

"Various elements had to be taken into consideration. Naturally the dash must be made at high tide. There was only one way in which we could hope to protect the vessels if the raid were made by daylight, and that was a smoke screen. But airplanes, scouting above, would lay a fleet open to observation and to practically the same attack by indirect fire as on land. So the dash had to be made at night, and on such a night as the tide would be high at about midnight, for the ships must go in, do their destruction, and then come out again before the shore batteries would have the daylight to help them.

"There were something like 150 guns on the shore commanding the 15-mile radius. If these discovered the vessels none of the ships could have lived through the falling shells. As the batteries all had the use of searchlights and star shells it became necessary to take measures to prevent the ships being seen by any method of illumination until the last moment. That necessitated the use of smoke screens. A smoke screen is very little use unless it approaches with you; thus you must always have the wind blowing in your direction of advance. In our case it was from the north. The use of any craft to make smoke would not be of much avail unless they could approach the coast making smoke to the last minute. This necessitated light draft vessels, and they in turn required calm weather.

Details to Be Worked Out.

"So the conditions necessary demanded high water occurring at a particular period of the night, wind blowing directly into the harbor, calm weather and, of course, no fog, for the latter would prevent the blocking ships from finding the coast.

"Having attained these, there still were other matters to be worked out. For the blocking ships to find their destination it was quite obvious that they must be able to see for a certain distance, say for a mile or two at least. And this means that the moment the entrance to the canal was in the same area of clear atmosphere with the blocking ships, namely, during the final run in, the shore batteries on the coast line also would be in the clear weather and able to concentrate on the blocking ships, much to their detriment.

"This applied both to Zeebrugge and Ostend, where the German batteries are on the actual coast line. But at Zeebrugge there was the additional obstruction which is absent at Ostend—the Mole.

"The Mole at Zeebrugge extends rather more than three-quarters of a mile from the entrance of the canal, and the outer end of the Mole had been turned into a veritable fortress. The position of the navigable channel leading to the canal entrance was such that the ships were forced to pass close to the batteries on the Mole, and it was too much to hope that they would be able to do this and pass inside these batteries and then meet the full blast of the shore batteries without being sunk before reaching the canal. It therefore became clear that it would be necessary either to destroy or to divert the attention of the Mole batteries before the block ships arrived in the vicinity, and in the latter case to keep them diverted until after the blocking ships had arrived at their destination.

Use Special Storm Parties.

"The German garrison in the Mole was believed to consist of about one thousand men. It was decided to storm the Mole with special storm parties immediately prior to the arrival of the blocking ships. The necessity of holding the Mole for a certain length of time would also provide opportunity to carry out a certain amount of destructive work on the Mole. The possibility of re-enforcements coming from the shore end and preventing the storming party from attaining their object was to be countered by cutting the Mole off from shore by blowing up the railway viaduct.

"The Mole is a mile and a half long and 80 yards wide. On the outer side it is flanked by a wall 30 feet high. Five feet below the top of this wall is a narrow gangway or parapet running the whole length of the Mole, with an iron handrail on its inner side. From the parapet there is a 16-foot drop to the Mole proper. The inner side of the Mole is fitted to allow ships berthing alongside; whereas it probably was never considered that any ships would wish to berth along the other side. The ships carrying the storming party could not go along the inner side of the Mole without passing close to the Mole batteries, and thereby risking the certainty of being sunk.

"Therefore it was necessary for these vessels to be secured alongside the parapet of the Mole, and for the storm parties to climb over the 30-foot wall down to the parapet, and thence over the handrail and drop 16 feet to the Mole before they could attack the Mole batteries or carry out their destructive work.

Went Like Clock Work.

"The operation went like clock work. The Vindictive, Iris and Daffodil proceeded alongside the Mole in spite of a heavy fire from the Mole batteries. The arrival was at one minute past midnight, April 22-23, and the storm party disembarked on the Mole immediately. The Daffodil, pushing the Vindictive alongside the Mole, enabled this to be done. Because of the roughness of the sea the Iris had difficulty in securing to the wall, and finally went alongside the Vindictive with the intention of disembarking her men over that ship.

"The Germans appear to have been taken completely by surprise. Immediately that they had heard the approach of the vessels they fired many hundreds of star shells. But the smoke screens prevented the enemy from discerning the nature of the attack until it was too late. An old submarine, fitted with explosives, had run into and secured herself under the viaduct, and had been blown up after the crew had escaped in a small dinghy. This terrific explosion in their rear, the attack of the storm party in their midst, and the general confusion which must have reigned amongst them, were probably the cause of the Germans not noticing the approach of the block ships. These latter passed close around the end of the Mole and made direct for the canal entrance. The leading ship, H. M. S. Thetis, was heavily engaged by the shore batteries, but although in a sinking condition managed to direct the other two vessels toward their destination. The Thetis herself struggled on, and finally sank very close off the canal entrance and right across the fairway. The Intrepid and the Iphegenia proceeded into the canal entrance and sank in the positions ordered by blowing out their bottoms by mines especially placed for the purpose. Motor launches had followed in after the three blocking ships and under terrific fire from almost point blank range they went around the sunken vessels and took off the crews. This rescue work was so magnificently carried out that practically none of the crews of the three block ships were lost.

Still in Position.

"All three block ships are still in position, after three and a half months, and the navigable channel into the canals remains sealed. The difficulty of placing a ship across the channel in broad daylight and without opposition is considerable, so how the commanding officers of these ships managed to sink them so successfully almost passes comprehension.

"The escape of the officers and men from the wrecks was well carried out. The Intrepid alone carried nearly 90 men and not a single man fell into German hands, although, as has been said before, this blocking operation took place very nearly one mile inside the batteries of the Mole, and two of the block ships were actually inside the shore line.

"When it was considered that sufficient time had elapsed for the blocking ships to do their work and for the crews to be rescued the order was given to the storming parties to retire from the Mole. Whilst the Vindictive and her consorts were actually alongside they were comparatively safe from fire except in the case of the upper works which rose above the Mole. The big funnels and mast of the Vindictive had been riddled through and through, and many casualties were caused by flying splinters. As soon as the order to retire was given the storm parties re-embarked. Some had been killed, several severely wounded, and yet out of about four hundred men who had stormed the Mole less than a score were left behind, in spite of the 16-foot climb up the ladder onto the parapet.

"There must have been many acts of great gallantry to enable men who could not walk to be carried back on board amidst heavy fire of the light guns on the Mole and shell fire from the shore batteries, which had commenced to shell their own Mole as soon as they discovered it was in our possession.

Small Craft Take Part.

"It was fully realized that immediately the ships shoved off the Mole they would come under the concentrated fire of every battery that could bear. H. M. S. Iris, on leaving the Vindictive, was severely hit and suffered many casualties, but the Vindictive herself and the Daffodil bore charmed lives. All three ships retired to the northward whilst emitting smoke clouds to cover their retreat.

"In addition to the vessels already mentioned, a large number of small craft took part in the operation, and it can safely be said that any failure on the part of a single unit might have prevented the success of the whole expedition. Small motor boats steamed up and down close off the shore batteries, as it were, treating the latter with utter contempt. Destroyers supported the small craft, bombarded the enemy batteries and assisted in rescue work with equal contempt of danger.

"Vice Admiral Keyes directed the whole operation, which had been prepared under his own supervision, from H. M. S. Warwick, and did not leave the scene of operations until the last of the blocking ships' crews had been recovered. The spirit and determination with which he had imbued all his officers and men and his great quality of leadership made success as near a certainty as possibly could be done.

"Every officer and man who took part in this operation consequently had put to sea with absolute confidence that success would be attained. A complete success was attained, and more complete was it than could ever have been hoped when the undertaking first came up for consideration."

ONE-LEGGED NEWSBOY SUCCESS AT RECRUITING

St. Louis.—E. S. Phillips, a newsboy of this city, has one leg and one heart—both for the United States. His heart was strong enough to go into the army—but his one-leggedness has kept him out. Phillips, undaunted, turned himself to what he thought was the best way he could help, and has sent 756 legs into the army, according to recruiting officers here, who say he induced 378 eligibles to join the marine corps.

DAIRY

CONTAINER OF PROPER KIND

Those With Handles Are Much Less Likely to Be Damaged in Transit in the Mails.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

One important requirement for parcel post shipping and marketing is a proper and satisfactory container. Sometimes the consumer can secure containers more readily and economically than the producer. Those with handles are much less likely to be damaged in transit in the mails than those which are not thus supplied and which are likely to be tossed or thrown or handled by the string or twine used in tying them. A bamboo basket serves the purpose very well and may be used a long time. Ordinary splint baskets made of strips of veneer may also be used, and if they can be secured at a price sufficiently cheap a new one for each shipment is more economical than having them returned, unless they are sent back in lots of ten or more under one cover. This, of course, necessitates using them without a wooden handle, in which case a heavy twine should be used for a handle. This twine can be untied and the baskets used, or placed in one another, for return shipment. If a basket with a wooden handle is used, care should be taken to see it is securely nailed, not only at the rim of the basket but farther down toward the bottom, so as to prevent undue leverage which may break loose the nailing.

Container for Shipping Cheese by Parcel Post.

Corrugated pasteboard cartons frequently may be found useful and desirable for this service. They are made in a great variety of sizes, dimensions, and patterns, and when empty are shipped knocked down flat.

Few persons know how to prepare and pack fruit and produce for market. Proper packing for parcel post marketing is of primary importance and needs to be emphasized so that both the contents and the container may carry properly, arrive in good condition, and present a satisfactory appearance. The pack should be regular, of as nearly uniform produce as possible, and of full measure according to the quantity ordered. A little practice will enable almost anyone to pack a basket or container of any kind in a satisfactory manner.

FLAXSEED VS. WHOLE MILK

Outline of Results Secured by Experts at North Dakota Station in Feeding Calves.

Any successful method that will cut down the period of feeding whole milk to calves is usually welcomed by dairymen. Experts at the North Dakota experiment station have used flaxseed and skim milk with good results in the following manner:

Whole milk was fed for the first three weeks. Then during the age from three weeks to six months skim milk was fed with enough flaxseed to take the place of the fat in whole milk. Each calf was given two gallons of skim milk a day.

Calves fed in this manner did not do quite so well the first three months as a similar group of calves fed whole milk, but at the end of the six months there was practically no difference in condition except that the calves fed whole milk averaged about four pounds less in weight. But considering that $19 worth of whole milk per calf had been saved in the six months' period, the use of flaxseed was considered the better practice.

KEEP CREAM CANS COVERED

Direct Rays of Sun Counteract Whatever Care Has Previously Been Made to Keep Cool.

(By R. M'CANN, Colorado Agricultural College, Fort Collins, Colo.)

A great part of the value of keeping cream cool on the farm and at the station or creamery is lost in the cream being exposed to the direct rays of the sun while being hauled from the farm to the point of sale. Far too few people stop to realize the importance of covering their cream cans when bringing them in to town. Expensive jacketed cans are not a necessity to keep the cream cool; in summer weather just an ordinary piece of clean wet burlap or blanket thrown over the cans will keep the temperature of the cream as much as 20 degrees below what it would rise to if left uncovered while being transported over the average hauling distance.

Horticultural Advice

WHIP GRAFTING IS FAVORED

Method Has Advantage of Being Adapted to Small Plants—Can Be Done During Winter.

(From the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Whip grafting is the one almost universally used in root grafting. It has the advantage of being well adapted to small plants only one or two years of age, as well as the other great consideration that it can be done indoors during the comparative leisure of winter.

The graft is made by cutting the stock off diagonally—one long, smooth cut with a sharp knife, leaving about three-fourths of an inch of cut surface. Place the knife about one-third of the distance from the end of the cut surface, at right angles to the cut, and split the stock in the direction of its long axis. Cut the lower end of the scion in like manner, and when the two parts are forced together the cut surfaces will fit neatly together and will nearly cover the other if scion and stock are of the same size. A difference in diameter of the two parts to be united may be disregarded unless it be too great. After the scion and stock have been locked together they should be wrapped with five or six turns of waxed cotton to hold the parts firmly together.

While top grafting may be done in this way, it is in root grafting that the whip graft finds its distinctive field. When the roots are cut into lengths of two to five or six inches to be used as stocks, the operation is known as piece-root grafting. Sometimes the entire root is used.

The roots are dug and the scions are cut in the fall and stored. The work of grafting may be done during the winter months. When the operation has been performed, the grafts are packed away in moss, sawdust or sand in a cool cellar to remain until spring. It is important that the place of storage should be cool, else the grafts may start into growth and be ruined, or heating and rotting may occur. If the temperature is kept low—not above 40 degrees F.—there will be no growth except callusing and the knitting together of stock and scion.

In ordinary propagation by means of whip grafts, the scion is cut with about three buds, and the stock is nearly as long as the scion. The graft is so planted as to bring the union of stock and scion not very far below the surface of the ground; but where the trees are required to be especially hardy in order to stand severe winters, and the roots used are not known to be so hardy as the plants from which the scions have been cut, a different plan is adopted. The scions are cut much longer and the roots may be cut shorter, and the graft is planted so deep as to cause roots to issue from the lower end of the scion. When taken up to be set in the orchard, the original root may be removed entirely, leaving nothing but the scion and the roots which have been put forth from it. This is a common practice in preparing nursery stock for planting in the northern part of the Mississippi valley.

ATTENTION TO FRUIT TREES

Make Careful Inspection and Remove All Branches Broken by Storms or Heavy Crop.

Inspect carefully all fruit trees and remove any branches that have been broken by summer storms or a heavy crop of fruit. If only slightly broken they may be propped up in such a way as to grow back together. If not remove by sawing off right up close to the main body of the tree or other branch from which it comes.

CAREFULLY PICK ALL APPLES

Each Specimen Should Be Placed in Basket, Box or Barrel So as Not to Bruise It.

In picking apples and other fruit, use great care in placing each specimen carefully in the baskets and boxes or barrels so as not to bruise it. See that picking baskets and field boxes are free from splinters and nails.

SAN FRANCISCO BOY DIES AT BREST, FRANCE

San Francisco.—Chief Yeoman Inyo A. Russ, U. S. N., a San Francisco boy, is reported to have died on October 8 in a hospital at Brest, France, of pneumonia, according to a telegram from the Navy Department received by the young man's mother, Mrs. Annie L. Russ of 432 Belvedere street.

Russ was a son of the late Henry B. Russ, for years treasurer of the Olympic Club, and was himself one of the youngest life members of the club, where for three years he had been hand-ball champion. Lieutenant Cecil Huntington, the aviator, Russ' handball partner in many tournaments, was the first Olympian to be killed.

Russ, who was 24 years old, had completed his fifteenth trip across the Atlantic in the U. S. S. Northern Pacific when stricken, and had been selected for the Naval Officers' Training School at Yale. He is survived by his mother, three sisters and two brothers.

WOMAN'S NERVES MADE STRONG

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Winona, Minn.—"I suffered for more than a year from nervousness, and was so bad I could not rest at night—would lie awake and get so nervous I would have to get up and walk around and in the morning would be all tired out. I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and thought I would try it. My nervousness soon left me. I sleep well and feel fine in the morning and able to do my work. I gladly recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to make weak nerves strong."—Mrs. ALBERT SULTZE, 603 Olmstead St., Winona, Minn.

How often do we hear the expression among women, "I am so nervous, I cannot sleep," or "it seems as though I should fly." Such women should profit by Mrs. Sultze's experience and give this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial.

For forty years it has been overcoming such serious conditions as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, dizziness, and nervous prostration of women, and is now considered the standard remedy for such ailments.

TO BAR FOOD CORNERS

France Plans to Prevent Boost in Prices.

Food Minister Is Inclined Toward Monthly Rationing Scheme—Potatoes Plentiful.

Paris.—M. Victor Boret, the French food minister, it is said will bring before the cabinet important measures for preventing the increase in meat prices and in the cornering of supplies. The commission that he sent to London, it is understood, has reported unfavorably on the introduction, for the present at least, of the English meat card.

The French bread card has given good results and the food minister inclines toward the monthly meat card, which for 19 days will entitle the holder to two and a half ounces of meat, for eight days four and a half ounces of tripe, rabbit or fowl, and for four days six ounces of cold meat.

He points out that the French herds have suffered much more than the English, there being larger supplies of fish and frozen meat in England than in France. M. Boret adds that there are plenty of potatoes, that he is trying to increase the catch of fish, and that larger quantities of macaroni in its various forms will be available.

Parisians who sometimes find that their baker supplies them with bread of a darker flour than usual are advised in a note issued by the food ministry not to make this a reason for buying at another shop. The variation in the color is due to the fact that some of the wheat imported from the United States is for reasons of tonnage economy not refined to the same degree as in France, and transport difficulties sometimes prevent the making of uniform mixtures. As the same variety of flour is rarely delivered twice in succession to the same baker, it is in the customer's interest that he should always make his purchase at the same shop.

POETS HONOR WAR HEROES

Names of Four Who Gave Lives Inscribed on Ambulances Donated for Italy.

New York.—The names of four heroes of the war will be inscribed on ambulances donated by the American poets' ambulances in Italy, according to an announcement by Robert Underwood Johnson, chairman of the fund.

The honor will be paid to Curtis Seaman Read of New York city, American aviator killed in France; John Kipling, son of Rudyard Kipling, who is presumed to have been killed while in action with the British forces; Antonio Resnati, the Italian aviator, who was killed recently in an accident at Mineola, N. Y., and Commander Rizzo of the Italian navy, hero of the recent sinking of an Austrian dreadnaught off the Dalmatian coast.

These four ambulances are the last of 110 provided by the fund.

WOMEN FORM SECTION GANG

Seven of Them Give Capable Service on Stretch of Track in Washington.

Castle Rock, Wash.—Six married women and one who hopes eventually to be married form a section gang that is caring for a stretch of double-tracked main line of the Northern Pacific north of this town. The fair-sexed seven are in charge of a regular section gang foreman, and he reports the women do just as efficient work as the 15 men who formerly made up his crew.

POLAND'S EMPTY NESTS.

[Along the road from Warsaw to Pinsk nearly half a million people had died of hunger. Wicker baskets were scattered along the way—the basket in which the baby swings from the rafter in every peasant home. Every mile there were scores of them, each telling of a death.—F. C. Walcott in Public Information Series.]

The roads that out of Warsaw run
Hold grim memorials of the Hun;
But one more grim than all the rest—
The Polish baby's empty nest.

You've seen the oriole's nest swung high
On elm-tree branch against the sky—
In peasant homes in Poland hung
Such cradle-nests from rafters swung.

The baby laughed, the mother rocked,
Until a day when Someone knocked!
Well, yes—oh, why the truth disguise?
'Twas Death, in fearful Prussian guise.

He came—and all must at his word
Be driven out, in piteous herd!
The mother cut the cradle ropes—
The cradle with their tender hopes!

The baskets in their arms they bore,
Now empty nests, by many a score,
Line roads that out of Warsaw run—
God overtake the hated Hun!

—Edith M. Thomas, Springfield Republican.

Did Not Want Justice.

Daniel Willard, former chairman of the War Industries Board, said at a dinner in Washington: "The Germans are funny people. They are whining now that the world is unjust to them. They remind me of an old maid who once went to a fashionable photographer's and had herself photographed in a low-necked white gown. Looking at the result, the old maid hissed: 'This photograph doesn't do me justice.' 'Justice, ma'am?' said the photographer. 'Don't talk about justice. What you want is mercy.'"—Washington Post.

It is estimated that there is now a skilled labor shortage of 250,000.

The Real Need.

"That girl thinks of nothing all day but a good dressing up."

"Then what she needs is a good dressing down."

A recent announcement of the Department of Agriculture stated that approximately 21,000,000 yards of burlap could be saved if fertilizer dealers would use 200-pound bags instead of 100-pound bags.

Hurrah! How's This

Cincinnati authority says corns dry up and lift out with fingers.

Ouch! ! ! ! ! ! This kind of rough talk will be heard less here in town if people troubled with corns will follow the simple advice of this Cincinnati authority, who claims that a few drops of a drug called freezone when applied to a tender, aching corn or hardened callus stops soreness at once, and soon the corn or callus dries up and lifts right off without pain.

He says freezone dries immediately and never inflames or even irritates the surrounding skin. A small bottle of freezone will cost very little at any drug store, but will positively remove every hard or soft corn or callus from one's feet. Millions of American women will welcome this announcement since the inauguration of the high heels. If your druggist doesn't have freezone tell him to order a small bottle for you.—Adv.

SCOUTS DOING A GREAT WORK.

The Boy Scouts of America have done big work this year—greater, more valuable work was never done.

Leaders and troops, old and young, went into America's fight for liberty with vim, stuck to it with vigor and harvested a crop of funds and food that meant victory.

Millions of dollars were secured for clothing, shelter and instruments of defense. Tons of food were added to Uncle Sam's store that furnishes the physical fuel needed to enable our soldiers to stop the barbarian horde attacking the civilization secured by man's struggle for 2,000 years.

How He Foretold Weather.

At Whitby, when the moon is surrounded by a halo of watery clouds, the seamen say there will be a change of weather, for the moon dogs are about. An amusing story is told about a fisherman in Torquay. A gale having taken place during the night, he said he had foreseen it, as he had noticed a star ahead of the moon towing her and another astern chasing her. "I know'd 'twas coming then, safe enough," he told them all.—London Mail.

North American Moose.

The moose is the largest living representative of the deer family, and is found in North America. The elk is native of northern Europe and is considered by many zoologists to be the same species, except that it is smaller. A full grown moose may be six and one-half to seven feet tall at the shoulder and weigh 1,000 to 1,500 pounds. On account of endurance and strength the moose is frequently symbolic, persons of unusual power being said to be "As strong as a bull moose."

Filipino Legend.

A Philippine legend tells of the origin of head hunting. In warfare the Igorot always brings home the heads of his victims. One day the Moon, a woman, was beating out brass. The young child of the Sun stood near by, watching. His scrutiny angered the Moon, and she threw a stick at him, causing decapitation. The Sun then appeared and put his child's head back on his trunk, declaring that because of the Moon's wanton act mortals would henceforth cut off each other's heads when in wrath.

Our Neighbors.

Charles Lamb was one day criticizing a neighbor rather severely when his listener interposed with a protest that the judgment was mistaken, and that the critic did not really know the man. "But I don't want to know him," said Lamb. "I might get to like him." That is what might happen in a good many cases when we stand off and condemn. The faults are not the only qualities our neighbor possesses. We might get to like him if we took the trouble to get acquainted.

Cause of Apoplexy.

Despite the fact that medical men look upon apoplexy as nine-tenths predisposition, the courts and laity have at times regarded it as almost traumatic in its nature. The physician thinks in terms of the blood pressure, hypertrophy of the heart and vascular degeneration, and to a much less extent to muscular effort and emotional stress, for these factors only precipitated an inevitable accident. An exciting cause may be minimal, a sudden exposure to cold, or absent altogether.—Medical Record.

UNITED WAR WORK CAMPAIGN READY TO BE LAUNCHED

Preparations Have Been Completed for $170,500,000 Drive in This State

CALIFORNIA QUOTA, $5,000,000

Catholics, Jews and Protestants Working Together to Raise Unprecedented Fund for Welfare and Comfort of American Boys Overseas.

PROPORTION OF FUNDS IN NATION-WIDE DRIVE

As approved by representatives of the Government at Washington, the $170,500,000 will be divided as follows:

Y. M. C. A.	$100,000,000
Y. W. C. A.	15,000,000
National Catholic War Council (including Knights of Columbus)	30,000,000
War Camp Community Service	15,000,000
Jewish Welfare Board	3,500,000
American Library Association	3,500,000
Salvation Army	3,500,000

Any surplus will be divided pro rata.

Preparations have been completed in the 58 counties of California for the national drive of the United War Work Campaign from November 11 to 18, which will, it is expected, provide more than $170,500,000 for the war work of the Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., National Catholic War Council, Jewish Welfare Board, Salvation Army, War Camp Community Service and American Library Association.

The California quota is $5,000,000, but nearly every county is working toward an over-subscription, following receipt of a statement from Director-General John R. Mott that $250,000,000 really are needed to meet the needs of the soldiers during the coming year. In a number of instances county officials have felt that their quotas were not large enough and have voluntarily increased them.

Promises 50 Per Cent Increase

Alpine County, tucked away in the Sierra Nevada Mountains, with four villages, a population of 250 and not a church in the entire county, has accepted its quota of $450 and sends word that it will oversubscribe by 50 per cent.

Sacramento, with a quota of $145,200, has set its goal at $250,000. The campaign in Riverside will be conducted by the War Relief Council.

Kern County is keeping open the 166 voting booths of the county to receive contributions on the opening day of the campaign. It has been suggested that every wage earner give at least one day's wages towards the fund.

Great interest in the campaign has been manifested by the women of the State, thousands of whom will take an active part in soliciting funds. Protestant, Catholic and Jewish women are organizing a house to house canvass in many cities.

Boys and Girls Ready

The "Earn and Give" division of the Victory Boys and Girls has received the enthusiastic endorsement of men and women. The opportunity of backing a fighter with money that he or she has earned has made a striking appeal to thousands of young people throughout the State. Twenty thousand students of California are now being enrolled, with a goal of $125,000. This campaign comprises the student body of business colleges and private normal and professional schools.

Organization of the non-English speaking citizens of the State is being effected north and south under the direction of Prof. W. R. Mitchell. Thousands of Spanish, Italian, French Greek, Chinese and Japanese residents whose boys are with the A. E. F. in France are enthusiastically co-operating in the preliminary plans for the campaign.

Inaugural Dinners November 8

Inaugural dinners are planned throughout the State for Friday night, November 8. At these affairs the entire plan of campaign will be set forth in detail. It is believed that the ban on all public meetings, whether indoor or outdoor, will have been lifted by that time. The routing of prominent speakers from overseas has been resumed, and nearly 200 men whose welfare work has taken them into the front lines in France will address public meetings.

Three thousand ministers, priests and rabbis of the State will devote a part of their sermons and announcements on Sunday morning, November 10, to the United War Work Campaign and the purposes to which the money will be put.

In many churches returned workers from the various organizations concerned in the drive will occupy the pulpits.

To Remove Discolorations.

To remove marks and discolorations from brass or gilt ornaments, picture frames, etc., dissolve a piece of soft soap the size of an egg in a pint of boiling water, then add a tablespoonful of ammonia. Wring a cloth out of the solution and gently wipe the article to be cleaned; then sponge it with care, using cold water. Finally dry with a soft cloth.

Stephens and Young Win

GOV. STEPHENS, our war governor has been re-elected by an overwhelming plurality over Bell, which is a most loyal endorsement of his patriotic activities.

According to latest reports Agnes E. Howe has defeated D. T. Bateman for County Superintendent of schools by over 1000 votes.

Hugh S. Hersman has defeated E. A. Hayes for Congressman from the eighth district.

Indications are that the dry amendments have carried, tho all precincts are not yet reported.

THE BALL HAS BEEN STARTED. Keep it rolling. The Woman's National Defense Society has declared a boycott on German made goods, especially toys and china. This is a direct hit at the German economical propaganda for world control and deserves the hearty support of every loyal American. "Made by our foe" goods should not be sold over our counters in competition with goods made by humanity's champions and nothing will serve as a retaliatory measure against the enemy so strongly as such a boycott.

GERMANY ALREADY IS PLANNING for her industrial post-war drive and is boasting of her large opportunities in Russia and Roumania. She is counting unhatched birds. When the allies get thru with the Bolsheviki they will be feeding from our hands and Roumania is now only too glad to buy from U. S. After the war the United States will need to run her factories day and night to supply the half of the demands on her for implements of peace.

CONSERVE THE PAPER. This country is on the verge of a wrapping paper famine because of the conversion of the materials into war supplies. Merchants are requested to use newspapers as far as possible for wrapping and salvage wrapping papers for re-use. To show their patriotism patrons should not ask merchants to wrap packages unnecessarily. Remember that the little things count in this big struggle.

Local and Personal

Orchard City Grange will not meet during the month of November.

Karl Bohnett and Ralph Gardner have completed their first sail across the briny. They do say that Karl was some fish feeder.

The churches of Campbell will probably hold short services next Sunday at 11 A. M. There will be no other services. Watch the papers for further announcements.

Miss Helen Wood mention of whose enlistment as a nurse appears in another column has passed the requirements of the State Board of Health and so was able to enter training without a high school diploma.

During the past week the H. C. Smith family have been right royally entertained at family dinners by a number of friends. These informal attentions are greatly appreciated and enjoyed by said family and makes one feel really glad to be living among such folk.

Principal W. B. Kammerer of the grammar school will meet the boys and girls of the Campbell community between the ages of 12 and 20 on the school grounds this Friday afternoon. This will be an open air affair for the purpose of organizing the Victory boys and girls. Don't forget, this afternoon at three o'clock, and be on time.

Death Of Young Officer

Lieut. G. E. Wright, whose marriage to Miss Dollie Blenkinsop, was shortly to have taken place, has been killed in action. He had just returned to the front after a leave of absence in England to be decorated by the King with the Military Cross, which was awarded to him seven months ago, for extreme bravery in saving his guns.

Miss Blenkinsop, who is a sister of Mrs G. S. Robson, was well known in Campbell several years ago when she visited here and the many friends of herself and sister extend their heartfelt sympathy to her in her great bereavement.

In 1848, when James K. Polk was President, the German government asked the United States for an experienced American naval officer of suitable rank to take command of the German navy. The Cabinet was unanimously in favor of granting the request, but Mr. Polk refused it. It looks now as if the project had merely been postponed.—Youth's Companion.

His Patience Exhausted.

A friend liked to tease Max. One day when he thought she had been too rough with him he jammed his hands deep into his overall pockets and, backing away from her, asked, "What do you think I is—something to pay with or something weal?"

Honor is the recompense of those who do right without seeking recompense.

Genius.

It's wonderful how a landlady can serve so many things you don't care for.—Kansas City Journal.

A Statement

When my statement was made last week I had made arrangements for the conduct of my business with the understanding that I would try to the last moment to secure someone to continue the business here. Such an arrangement was an inconvenience to those friends and I appreciate their willingness to accept such a proposition.

I am pleased to announce at this time that arrangements have been completed whereby the newspaper and job work will be printed at this press office and the town will not be deprived of this enterprise and plant even temporarily, as formerly announced.

Mr. H. N. Cornes of Salinas, has taken charge of the paper this week and will continue it, with the stationery and book business during my absence in France.

I have greatly appreciated the liberal and friendly patronage of this community and bespeak the same and even more for my friend, Mr. Cornes. Also, that the paper may be worth while to its readers, any items of news or articles of interest that you send in will be greatly appreciated.

H. C. Smith.

Announcement

In assuming charge of this paper and of the business associated with it, I am keenly conscious that success will depend largely upon the continuance of the hearty support and loyalty of the citizens of the community.

I shall try to fill the chair temporarily vacated by Mr. Smith to the best of my ability and to serve the people and save the business for Mr. Smith while he goes to do a great work for the boys over there. For even tho peace has come,—for which we are devoutly thankful,—the work to which Mr. Smith goes will still be needed. It is for us to "carry on" in his absence, and 'till he comes back with the boys we shall keep the office fire burning. H. N. CORNES.

Be Fair With Children.

Do not keep a list of your children's faults constantly before you, and do not, if you would be happy and at the same time make these little ones happy, elaborate upon their failings before company. On the other hand, if you must speak of the day's events, emphasize their good deeds, tell of the splendid work done during school hours, and admit in the right spirit that these small members of the household save you many weary steps.

Lines to Be Remembered.

Most of all the other beautiful things in life come by twos and threes, by dozens and hundreds. Plenty of roses, stars, sunsets, rainbows, brothers and sisters, aunts and cousins, but only one mother in all the wide world.—Kate Douglas Wiggin.

Commissioners Report

Taxes for the residents of the Campbell Fire District were unusually high this year and many inquiries and questions have arisen so that the following statement has been prepared by the secretary of the commissioners.

A total of $4000 was raised, $2000 of which was voted by the people and $2000 levied by the Commissioners.

The following expenses have been incurred by the commission:

American La France Fire Engine and Truck	$1947.15
American Rubber Co. 509 ft. 2 in and 3 in. hose with extra nozzles	476.50
J. C. Lloyd—blacksmith work	20.50
L. Genasci & Son—wire and work	5.40
E. W. Preston—services	4.80
Campbell Lumber Co—lumber	26.57
Orchard City Drug Co.—Acid & Chemicals	11.50
J. G. McMillan—survey of district	6.00
C. H. Whitman—miscellaneous supplies	2.75
F. U. Branch—materials	$62.03
H. C. Smith—stationery, printing & advertising	11.05

Credit with American La France Co., for local work, to be deducted from above cost of engine $51.87

The contract calls for the payment of $1000, leaving a baladce of $818; with accreed interest of $49.08, which of and in full will save $49.08.

This is the full expense with the exception of hydrant rental, for which no bill has yet been rendered, leaving about $1400 in the treasury.

The commissioners do not handle any money which is collected by the county and paid out by warrant on the county treasurer.

With the balance in the treasury it will be unnecessary to vote any tax whatever for maintenance next year and with careful management possibly not for two years.

The books of the commissioners are open to the public and may be seen at any time at the store of the secretary, L. M. Beall.

Habit to Be Avoided.

The habit of unkind criticism or promiscuous criticism, if you prefer the word, grows by leaps and bounds if permitted to flourish at all. We have ideas in which we take a certain amount of pride, and those who do not live by them fall under the ban of our displeasure. We have no reason for believing that our ways are better, we merely assume it, and expect others to take the same line of thought. You see we demand freedom of action that we are not willing to accord to others.—Exchange.

Stained Glass.

In making stained glass windows, every bit of the work is done by hand, and it is amazing to realize how many times each piece of glass must be handled. An operator tells of counting up one day and finding that no less than 12 times were necessary. All the lead work is done by hand, too, even the opening of the little slots into which the glass is fastened.

Great Writers Lazy.

Shelley had an indolent vein. He was very fond of the water, and many of his finest poems were composed as he idled at his ease in a boat. He made the best of his short life, however, and that cannot be said for Coleridge, who seemed to be afflicted with that lack of will to work which some people call laziness. He had one of the greatest minds, but he left even his finest poems mere fragments.

"Bedlam."

Bedlam is another example of the English fashion of telescoping words, and comes from Bethlehem. The priory of St. Mary of Bethlehem in London was converted into a hospital for the insane in 1402 and in the course of time the name was shortened to Bellam, a word that came to be a synonym for madhouse. To open the door and let the inmates escape would be "Bedlam let loose," and frequently the phrase is used to describe intolerable clatter and racket.

Don't let the peace reports curtail your giving to the United War Work campaign to be conducted next week. The boys will not be home tomorrow.

The Day!

British drums were beating through the streets of Lille this morning,
As the tender light of autumn was with gold her spires adorning;
And happy hearts kept rhythm with the beating of the drums,
While voices sobbed and quavered: "The Liberator comes!"

The muffled tramp of infantry was dying in the distance,
The heavy-footed Hun had gone—had fled without resistance;
He had seen his doom approaching and had taken timely warning;
So the British drums were beating through the streets of Lille this morning!

Aye, the British drums, and Belgian, American and French
And Italian, roll a fanfare o'er valley, hill and trench;
From North Sea down to Switzerland the freedom chorus runs
At the heels of vanquished Hindenburg and his cowering, flying Huns.

"The Day" the Germans toasted in their arrogance and scorning
Is ushered in, thank Heaven, by the beating drums this morning;
But it is the Day of Justice, and of Victory nought can hinder,
For the allied drums are playing Unconditional Surrender!

The Day! the Day! God bless it; it has come at last in glory
To make an end for ever of proud Despotism's story;
It will see the vaunting war lords and their Junkers ground to powder,
And will hear the world's Te Deum swelling loud and ever louder!
